District Disbars Virginia Lawyer

An Annandale man has been disbarred from the practice of law in the District of Columbia for failing to act before the statute of limitations lapsed in a negligence case he was handling and then alledgely testifying falsely about the matter before a lawyers' disciplinary committee.

The D.C. Court of Appeals issued the disbarment order yesterday in the case of Roy H. Duesterdick. He could not be reached for comment.

Following appearances before lawyers' inquiry and hearing committees, a majority of the D.C. Bar disciplinary board recommended disbarment. Duesterdick did not challenge the recommendation, the appeals court said in adopting it.
